REVIEW OF THE MONTH

In June excess reserves of member banks showed considerable fluctuations. These reserves, which had been at about $900,000,000 since May 1, when the Excess reserves final increase in reserve requirements went into effect, declined by $180,000,000 during the week ended June 16 as a result of Treasury operations around the mid-June financing period. The decrease reflected a reduction of $120,000,000 in total balances of member banks with the Reserve banks and an increase of about $60,000,000 in required reserves owing to a growth in Treasury balances at depositary banks. During the following week excess reserves increased to $810,000,000. These changes had little effect in the money market and caused no advances in money rates. Rates on bankers' acceptances declined slightly in June.

During the first quarter of this year open-market rates for money advanced somewhat from the extreme low levels of the latter part of 1936, but this stiffening in open-market rates was not reflected in changes in rates charged by banks to their customers. Rates on customer loans as reported by banks in 36 leading cities have continued in recent months near the low level reached last year. As shown by the chart, the open-market rate on commercial paper increased from three-fourths of 1 percent, which had prevailed since the beginning of 1935, to 1 percent in the latter part of March, but customer rates on the average showed little change.

This is in accordance with usual developments. Open-market rates quickly reflect changes in credit conditions, while customer rates are usually much slower to respond. Customer rates had not fully reflected until last year the extreme monetary ease caused by the growth in excess reserves and the decline in the demand for credit during the depression. From the latter part of 1929 to the beginning of 1935 open-market commercial paper rates fell sharply, while customer rates showed a much smaller decline. In 1935 and 1936, on the other hand, open-market rates remained steady at a low level, while customer rates continued to fall, though not to the extremely low level reached by open-market rates.

In 1929 customer rates in leading cities were close to 6 percent. By the summer of 1936 they had fallen in New York to below 2½ percent, and have remained near that level since that time. In other leading cities there were further reductions in customer rates in the latter half of 1936, and this year they have averaged about 3 $\frac{3}{8}$ percent in 8 other northern and eastern cities and about 4 $\frac{1}{8}$ percent in 27 southern and western cities.

During the first five months of 1937 the Treasury increased the public debt by about $800,000,000 and reduced its working balance by $900,000. In order to replenish the working balance, the Treasury on June 15 sold $850,000,000 of Treasury notes. The offering was divided equally into two issues, one maturing on September 15, 1939, and the other on March 15, 1942. Receipts from these new issues, together with income taxes and other revenues in June, were utilized for meeting current expenditures, for purchases of gold, and for the redemption of $300,000,000 of Treasury bills, and in addition the working balance of the Treasury increased by $500,000,000.

Bank loans to customers for business purposes have continued to increase. At reporting member banks in leading cities the increased demand for commercial loans was reflected through May 12 in so-called "other" loans and since that time in the newly reported item of "commercial, industrial, and agricultural loans." Until June commercial loans increased both at banks in New York City and at other banks but in the four weeks ending June 23 the further increase was confined to banks in New York City. In this period New York reporting banks also showed a further increase in loans to brokers and dealers in securities. These loans have increased during most of the period since last November and for all reporting banks are now about $320,000,000 larger than at that time.

Member bank holdings of United States Government securities, after declining sharply in the first quarter of the year, showed further slight reductions until June, when they increased. On June 15 reporting member banks in leading cities purchased a considerable part of the $850,000,000 of notes issued by the Treasury. Subsequently a part of the notes purchased was resold to other investors, and bank holdings of Treasury bills also declined owing to the repayment by the Treasury of maturing bills. As a net result of these transactions, holdings of direct obligations of the United States Government at reporting member banks increased during the two weeks ending June 23 by $120,000,000, all of which was in leading cities outside New York and Chicago.

Payment for the new Treasury notes acquired by banks was made largely through crediting the deposit accounts of the Treasury, with the consequence that United States Government deposits at reporting member banks increased by $440,000,000 in the week ending June 16. Government deposits in these banks, which had declined from $700,000,000 at the beginning of the year to a small figure by the middle of June, were restored to $550,000,000 by June 23.

Disbursements by the Treasury of its bank balances largely accounted for the increase in adjusted demand deposits at reporting member banks since March. As the Treasury drew upon its balances, which are not included in adjusted demand deposits, funds were transferred to private accounts and were added to these deposits.

Balances due to banks, following a decline from March through the early part of May in connection with adjustment by interior banks to the raising of reserve requirements, showed little change thereafter in New York but outside New York they continued to decline through the first part of June. On June 23 balances due to banks by all reporting member banks were somewhat less than $5,000,000,000, as compared with a level of about $6,000,000,000 during the latter half of 1936 and the opening months of this year and with an average level of about $3,000,000,000 for several years prior to 1934.

Prices of securities, including both stocks and bonds, have shown a considerable downward movement since the beginning of this year, as shown on the chart.

Security markets For bonds the chart shows not prices, but yields, which in the case of bonds are more significant. In order to facilitate comparison with stock prices the scale on the bond chart is inverted, so that a rise in yields of bonds as prices decline and a decline in prices of stocks are both reflected in downward movements of the curves on the chart.

The decline in security prices in 1937 followed further advances during 1936 to new high levels for bonds and to the highest levels since 1930 for stocks. The decline in bond prices began near the end of 1936, and in March prices of Treasury bonds and other classes of United States Government securities declined rapidly and prices of stocks also declined. Since early in April prices of high-grade bonds have improved somewhat, while lower-grade corporate bonds have continued to be weak, and prices of stocks have declined further.

Near the end of June the average yield on longer-term Treasury bonds was 2.65 percent, compared with a high of 2.78 percent in April and a low of 2.22 percent last December. The average for high-grade corporate bonds was 3.29 percent, as compared with 3.48 percent at the high point in April and with 3.07 percent at the low in January. For lower-grade corporate bonds average yields as shown by Moody's average of Baa bonds were near 5 percent in the last week of June, as compared with 4.50 percent in January. At their current levels yields of bonds of the various grades are about the same as in the early part of 1936.

In the last week of June the general level of stock prices was about 15 percent below the high level for the recovery period reached early in March and about the same as in August 1936. The decline in average prices from March to June was somewhat larger for railroad than for industrial and public utility stocks.

Declines in bond prices in the first quarter of the year were accompanied by hesitation in the capital markets. In January offerings of new securities sold less readily than before and for some new issues the price declined below the original offering price. Under these conditions security offerings were considerably curtailed in March, April, and May. During these months the amount of capital issues, as compiled by the Commercial and Financial Chronicle, averaged about $300,000,000, compared with a monthly average of over $500,000,000 during 1936. Available information indicates that in June total offerings increased to about $600,000,000.

As shown in the following table the decline during the spring reflected principally reductions in the volume of municipal issues from the unusually large amount sold in January and in the amount of corporate refunding issues. Corporate issues to raise new capital also declined somewhat in April and again in May. Other offerings, including foreign issues and publicly offered issues of Federal agencies, were small following a large amount of foreign refunding issues in January and February.

Notwithstanding a decline in April and May, corporate securities for new capital sold in the first five months of 1937 averaged $100,000,000, which is about the same as the average monthly volume during 1936. It is reported that about three-fourths of the amount offered for new capital in the early months of 1937 was intended to be used for increasing working capital and for the acquisition of plant, equipment, and real estate.

This is about the same proportion as for the last quarter of 1936.

A substantial proportion of the offerings for new capital came from railroads and from petroleum companies. Issues for new capital by public utility companies and by companies in the metal and mining industries have been smaller than in 1936.

In recent months an increased proportion of corporate issues for both new and refunding purposes has been offered to security holders of the issuing corporation, and there has also been some increase in private offerings to insurance companies and other institutions.

Industrial production was maintained in April and May at 118 percent of the 1923-1925 average, as compared Recent business developments with an average of 115 in the fourth quarter of 1936 and 119 for the year 1929. Preliminary reports indicate a decline in June, reflecting a sharp reduction in steel output, largely as a result of labor disturbances. In the construction industry, public projects have been in smaller volume this year than a year ago and in recent months the expansion in private work, which had been in progress since the early part of 1935, appears to have been somewhat retarded by the sharp rise in construction costs that occurred during the past winter and spring. In agriculture, growing conditions have been better than a year ago, and with increased acreage, crops are expected to be considerably larger.

Since the beginning of April wholesale prices of many raw materials and semi-finished products, which earlier had risen most, have declined considerably, while prices of finished goods have shown little change. Price declines in some agricultural products like grains and cotton have reflected in part prospects for larger supplies than last season. Trade reports indicate that buying from manufacturers, which was in unusually large volume during the latter part of 1936 and the first quarter of 1937, has been at a lower level during the second quarter and this has been a factor in recent price developments.

Incomes of the different groups of the population have shown a further substantial growth this year, and distribution of commodities to consumers has been in larger volume than last year. Industrial payrolls have advanced sharply, reflecting increases in employment and in wage rates, and agricultural income and corporate profits and dividends have been considerably larger than a year ago.

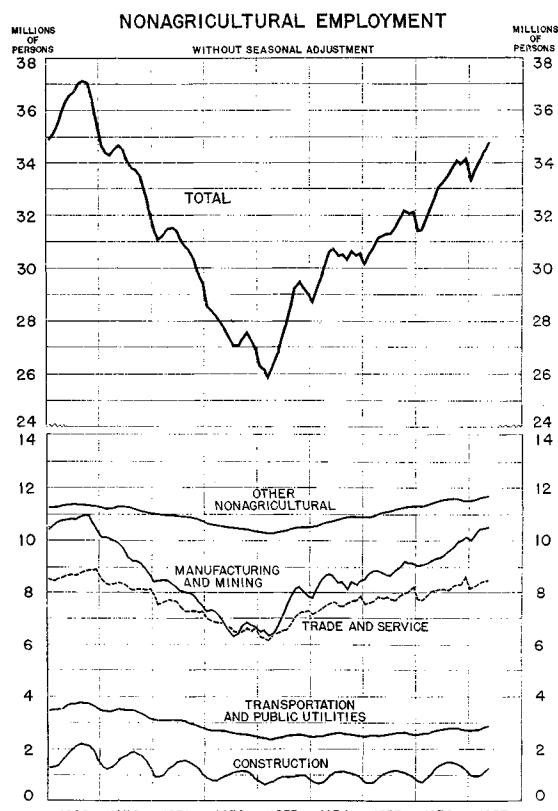

Profits reported by large industrial corporations during the first quarter of 1937, although slightly below those Corporate profits and dividends of the preceding quarter, were about 50 percent larger than in the corresponding period of 1936. The decline from the final quarter of last year is attributed in part to seasonal factors, in part to labor difficulties, particularly in the automobile industry, and in part to increasing costs. The increase as compared with the first quarter of 1936 was chiefly in various groups of corporations in the heavy industries, including iron and steel, building materials, household supplies, railroad equipment, and machinery. In the automobile industry profits were affected by labor disturbances.

Railroads as a group reported a profit for the first three months of 1937 as compared with a loss in the same period of 1936. Profits of public utility companies were somewhat higher.

Total cash dividends declared by corporations, as compiled by the New York Times, were about 20 percent larger in the first five months of 1937 than in the corresponding period of 1936. Since the latter part of 1936 the monthly distribution of dividend payments has been affected by changes in dividend policy resulting from the Federal tax on undistributed corporate profits.

The number of persons employed in non-agricultural pursuits has continued to increase this year and is now from $8\frac{1}{2}$ to 9 millions larger than in March 1933, according to estimates recently compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. These figures, which take into account 1935 census data, indicate a higher level of employment in recent years than had previously been estimated. The current number employed is shown as nearly 35 millions, which is between 1 and $1\frac{1}{2}$ millions lower than the average in 1929. Since that time the labor force of the country has grown considerably so that the increase in the number of persons unemployed or employed on relief projects has been much larger, as compared with 1929, than the decline in the number employed. The course of employment since 1929 is shown for various groups in the table and in the accompanying chart. The figures are not adjusted for seasonal variation.

Nonagricultural employment as a whole declined from about 36 million persons in 1929 to about 26 million in March 1933, a decrease of 28 percent. Employment in the group, including proprietors and self-employed, casual workers, and those employed in government service and in the professions, declined by 10 percent during the depression, while employment in other lines showed decreases ranging from 25 percent for the public utilities and service industries to 50 percent for construction.

Of the 8½ to 9 millions increase in employment since early in 1933, approximately one-half has been in manufacturing and mining and one-fourth in trade and service.

The fact that the number currently employed is less than in 1929 reflects largely the continued low level of employment in construction, transportation, and mining. In manufacturing and in trade and service the current level of employment is about the same as in 1929. Employment in government and the professions is above pre-depression levels and the number of proprietors and self-employed is also larger. The current levels of employment for the various groups differ from those in 1929, partly as a result of differences in activity, but also because of changes in efficiency and in the number of hours worked.

Appointment of Class C Director at Federal Reserve Bank

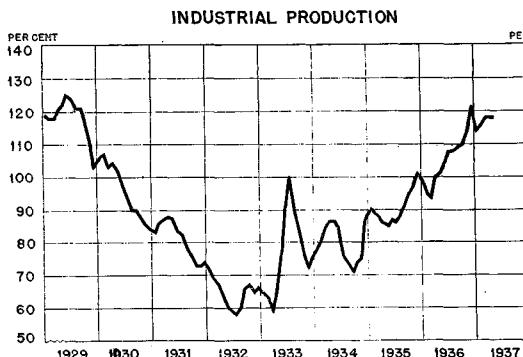

On June 15, 1937, Mr. J. Frank Porter was appointed as Class C director of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta for the unexpired portion of the three-year term ending December 31, 1939.

NATIONAL SUMMARY OF BUSINESS CONDITIONS

[Compiled June 25 and released for publication June 27]

Volume of industrial production in May continued at the level of the two preceding months. Commodity prices declined slightly in May and the first three weeks of June.

Production, employment, and trade.—In May the Board's seasonally adjusted index of industrial production remained unchanged at 118 percent of the 1923-1925 average. Output of iron, steel, automobiles, and lumber increased further. At cotton and woolen mills and at shoe factories activity continued at a high level, while at silk mills, meat-packing establishments, and sugar refineries there were considerable decreases. Crude petroleum production continued to rise and output of bituminous coal increased somewhat, following a sharp decline in April. Shipments of iron ore in May were larger than in the corresponding month of any previous year. In the first three weeks of June automobile production declined seasonally and, largely owing to labor disturbances, steel output was reduced to 77 percent of capacity as compared with 90 percent in May.

Value of construction contracts awarded in May was smaller than in April, according to figures of the F. W. Dodge Corporation. There were declines in awards for residential and other private projects, while contracts for public projects increased. In the first half of June awards for both private and public work were at a somewhat higher rate than in May.

Factory employment, which usually declines at this season, showed little change from April to May and the Board's adjusted index advanced somewhat further. Employment in the durable goods industries continued to increase while employment in other lines declined seasonally. Factory payrolls remained at the April level, following sharp increases in earlier months.

FACTORY EMPLOYMENT AND PAYROLLS

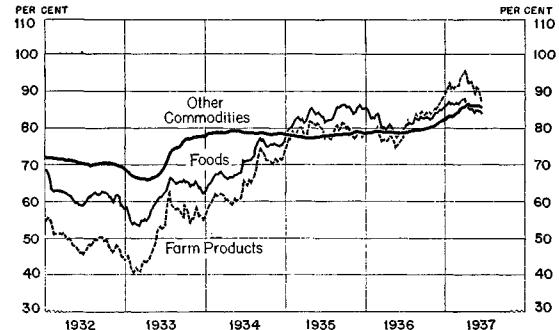

Monthly indexes of number employed and payrolls at factories, unadjusted for seasonal variation, 1923-1925 average = 100.

Distribution of commodities to consumers continued in May at the level of other recent months. Sales at department stores and at variety stores showed a seasonal rise and mail-order sales were maintained.

Commodity prices.—Between the middle of May and the third week of June, prices of grains, except spring wheat, declined considerably and there were smaller declines in cotton, cotton goods, wool, rubber, and steel scrap, while prices of most other commodities showed little change.

Bank credit.—Excess reserves of member banks, which had been about $900,000,000 after the May 1 increase in reserve requirements, declined by about $180,000,000 during the week ending June 16, in connection with Treasury operations, but increased in subsequent days and on June 23 were at a level of $810,000,000.

Wednesday figures for reporting member banks in 101 leading cities, September 5, 1934, to June 16, 1937. Loans on real estate, loans to banks, and acceptances and commercial paper bought included in total loans and investments but not shown separately.

At reporting member banks in leading cities holdings of United States Government obligations, after several weeks of little change, increased sharply during the week ending June 16, reflecting purchases of the new issues of Treasury notes.

Commercial loans at member banks continued to increase in the four weeks ending June 16. This increase was largely at banks in New York City, which also showed a growth in loans to other New York banks and to brokers and dealers in securities.

Money rates.—The open-market rate on 90-day bankers' acceptances, which had been reduced from $\frac{1}{16}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ of 1 percent on May 7, was further reduced to $\frac{7}{16}$ of 1 percent on June 22. Other money rates have shown little change in recent weeks.

² Figures are derived from preceding columns and indicate net result of such factors as domestic production, movements into and out of nonmonetary use or unreported holdings, imports and exports that do not affect gold stock during the month or year, and increment resulting from reduction in weight of gold dollar.

Back figures.—See Annual Report for 1935 (table 32).

Back figures.—See table p. 687, and Annual Report for 1935 (tables 34 and 35).

ALL BANKS IN THE UNITED STATES

For comparative figures of private banks included in the figures from June 1934 to December 1935, see Federal Reserve Bulletin for December 1935, p. 883, and July 1936, p. 535. Figures for nonmember banks are for dates indicated or nearest thereto for which figures are available.

² Decline in reported gold holdings of Bank of Italy during 1936 has been distributed monthly on basis of gold imports from Italy reported by other countries. Figures for February and March 1937 are for 20th of month; other figures for 1937 carried forward from last previous report date.

⁵ Figure for March 1935 carried forward for subsequent months.

NOTE.—The countries for which figures are not shown separately are in Europe: Albania, Danzig, Estonia, Finland, Latvia, and Lithuania; in Latin America: Bolivia, Brazil, Ecuador, El Salvador, and Guatemala; in Asia and Oceania: Australia, and Siam; and in Africa: Algeria, Belgian Congo, and Morocco.

For back figures and for full description of this table, see BULLETIN for May 1932, pp. 311-318; June 1933, pp. 368-372; July 1936, pp. 544-547; and August 1936, p. 667.

² By law of October 1, 1936, gold provisionally revalued at rate of 49 milligrams gold 0.900 fine per franc (see BULLETIN for November 1936, pp. 878-880). Of the total gold increment of about 17,000,000,000 francs, 10,000,000,000 francs was initially turned over to Stabilization Fund established by the law of October 1.
